

HALACHA V'HALICHA... By Rav Chaim Schabes

In the deepest darkness in מצרים, to the point that the darkness was tangible- וימש חושך - at a time when no ray of light was able to penetrate, there was one light that functioned and shone, the light of במושבותם היה אור במושבותם - תורה. ולכל בני ישראל היה אור במושבותם - where did B'nai Yisrael have light from? The Midrash explains: ועליהם נאמר: נר לרגלי דבריך ואור לנתיבתי - the word of Hashem shone upon them, because the light of Torah is so potent that it can pierce through the most awesome darkness, and bring brightness and warmth to the farthest corners.

There is a מצוה to add onto Shabbos and Yom Tov both at the beginning and at the end (OC 261:2), and therefore everyone must accept the Shabbos or Yom Tov while it is still day, and refrain from doing any מלאכה. This מצוה is called תוספת שבת or תוספת יום טוב and both men and women are obligated in this mitzvah (MB 19). Many people are not aware that in order to fulfill this mitzvah, it is not enough that one just refrain from doing melacha; rather, it must also be accepted verbally, which can be done through lighting candles (for the women), or for the men, by either answering ברכו provided that it is said at the time of תוספת שבת, or by stating verbally that "I am hereby accepting Shabbos in order to fulfill מצות תוספת שבת" (this last point is based on the majority of Poskim that hold this to be a מצוה דאורייתא and therefore מצוות צריכות מצוות דאורייתא; ס"א וס"א ת"ח ס"ג רמ"א although the קבלה, the MB in סק"ב holds that it is a קבלה, and the Vilna Gaon agrees with him) and one would have to refrain from melacha (although it is משמע that one may not be יוצא the מצוה with thought alone). According to our minhag that we say שיר ליום השבת, and when שבת doesn't fall on Yom Tov or Chol Hamo'ed we say בושלום, and when שבת falls on Yom Tov or Chol Hamo'ed we say בושלום, we are מקבל שבת at that point, just like women do with the lighting of the candles (MB 31). The time of תוספת שבת is about 2 min. before sunset; however, MB (23) writes that if one is able, one should be מקבל שבת around 20 min. before sunset (to be יוצא the opinion of the ראי"ם who holds that תוספת שבת starts ¼ of a מיל before שקיעה, and according to him, a מיל is 24 min. therefore it would be 18 (accurate) min. before שקיעה). According to this, one would have to have finished davening מנחה before that. One could be מקבל שבת from מנחה on, which is one and a quarter hours before שקיעה, and if someone is מקבל שבת before that, it is not valid at all (Ra'ma 261:2). MB writes (233:14) that even during regular weekdays it is preferable to daven mincha without a minyan, rather than daven with a minyan but after שקיעה; on erev Shabbos, one should be extra careful, because by davening too close to שקיעה one will be מבטל the מצוה of תוספת שבת, which according to most Poskim is a מצוה מן התורה (MB 19). If someone was מקבל שבת before מנחה, he is no longer allowed to daven מנחה, and he would have to daven תשלומים, meaning, he would have to say the ma'ariv shmone esrei two times (MB 233:43). If a part of the ציבור is late for קבלת שבת, the rest of the ציבור should not wait for them (MB 263:64), and they need not wait even for an אדם גדול (Aruch Hashulchan 263:28), so that they don't forgo the מצוה of תוספת שבת before the שקיעה.

THOUGHTS ON THE HAFTARAH ... By Rabbi Yaakov Shapiro (Yirmiyahu 46:13- 28)

As we constantly stress, the Sefrei Neviim should not be viewed as 'history books' but rather a collection of specific messages from Hashem to His people. But sometimes to clearly understand the message one needs to have a basic understanding of the historical events surrounding it. Our Haftara is a perfect example. Yirmiyahu, in a nevuah very similar, and in many ways identical, to the one given to Yechezkel (Yechezkel 28:25-29:21 normally the Haftara for Parshas Va'era), calls upon Nevuchadnetzar to rise up against Egypt and to utterly destroy her. But in the last 2 pesukim of the Haftara he switches gears and speaks to the Jewish people, encouraging them, and promising that they will not be destroyed. What is the significance of these pesukim, which contain a seemingly out-of-place message in a prophecy directed at Egypt? Furthermore, these 2 pesukim are a repetition practically verbatim of an earlier nevuah of Yirmiyahu (30:10-11) to the Jewish people; why repeat them again in our Haftara? To answer these questions, we need an historical background to our Haftara. After the destruction of the first Bais Hamikdash and the exile of most of the Jews to Babylonia there still remained in the land of Israel a number of Jews. Gedalyahu ben Achikam was appointed their leader by the king of Bavel, but soon after was assassinated by Yishmael ben Nesanya. Although the assassins fled to Amon, the remaining Jews feared they would be blamed for Gedalya's death and decided to escape to Egypt. Before leaving, they decided to consult Yirmiyahu who eventually brought them word from Hashem that they should under no circumstances go down to Egypt! Unfortunately, they wantonly ignored Hashem's command and went down anyway. Chronologically, our Haftara occurs not long after these events. As explained previously, the destruction of Egypt was to be absolute, with no living being to found there for 40 years, including these Jews who had gone down. When the rest of the Jews scattered throughout the world saw what had happened to Egypt and to their brothers there, they began to fear that the same fate awaited them where they resided. Yirmiyahu reassured them that while there was a general promise that the Jews in Galus were to eventually come home and would not be destroyed, it only applied to those who had been taken out of Eretz Yisrael against their will; but those who went against the words of Hashem and chose on their own to leave might, and in the case of those in Egypt would, not return!

ON LANGUAGE... By R' Moshe Orlan

Ibn Ezra mentions two interesting points on the same pasuk (Sh'mos 12:37), which relates that ויסעו בני ישראל מרעמסס. First, on the word ויסעו, "they traveled", Ibn Ezra points out that the ס should really get a dagesh. This is because the pattern for roots beginning with a נ, such as נסע here, is that in constructs where the root-נ drops out the following letter gets a dagesh, such as in the word ויתנו (where the first נ of the root נתן drops out). Ibn Ezra suggests that this is "perhaps" to facilitate pronunciation. Second, he notes that רעמסס here has a sh'va under the ע while in Sh'mos 1:11 there is a patach under the ע (רעמסס). He distinguishes between the two vocalizations, saying that the patach version refers to the city itself while the sh'va version refers to the region including the city. In support of this it should be noted that in B'reishis 47:11 it says ארץ רעמסס, using ארץ, "land of", to describe רעמסס, also with a sh'va, and it is not referred to as "city of" רעמסס. In addition to the three citations already mentioned, רעמסס appears only two other times in TaNaCh, both exactly as it appears here: ויסעו מרעמסס, with a sh'va.

LESSONS FROM OUR GEDOLIM: בא אל פרעה: A certain chassid once expressed hesitation about intervening with a certain Polish nobleman, known for his violent temper, to try and prevent an anti-Semitic edict. R' Yitzchak of Vorka encouraged the chassid, saying that Hashem says בא אל פרעה, as if to say "let's go together to Par'oh, rather than, לך אל פרעה, meaning that Hashem certainly accompanies those on holy missions. Needless to say, the nobleman was "convinced" not to pass the law...

MECHOCHMAS HAS'FORNO... By Rabbi Shmuel Burstein

What is the significance of the mitzvah of "peter chamor" (redeeming the first born of a donkey, by giving a Kohen a sheep)? What is the reason for the Torah's isolating a chamor for this mitzvah? Furthermore, why must we commit such a violent act, axing it at the neck, if the mitzvah is not fulfilled? Well, S'forno understands the complexities involved in this mitzvah to be the motivating force behind the question we usually ascribe to the "ben tam", the third of the proverbial four sons, when he asks מה זאת? Most of us are used to thinking of the question as related directly to the Pesach seder. Indeed, this is the intention of the Ba'al Haggadah in placing the ben tam's question, too, in the center of the evening's events. But S'forno understands the question to be directly related to the mitzvah of peter chamor, and not one asked necessarily by a ben tam. Imagine. One has just learned about the mitzvah of peter chamor, or the killing of the donkey by axing his head off, if not redeemed. One asks: Since when do we find any concept of kedusha whatsoever operative by a non-kosher animal? And imagine if "your son" (בנך) happened to have been present at the more graphic end of the ceremony, (the axing). This forces him to shout מה זאת! Or as we might have said: "What in the world is going on here?" S'forno sees this as a legitimate question asked by any son of Yisrael, not just the simple one. The answer lies in the events surrounding Yetzi'as Mitzrayim. S'forno says that travelers in the time of the Pharaohs carried their possessions on wagons. (One immediately calls to mind the events surrounding the gifts to Ya'akov by Yosef: "וירא את העגלות") But due to the extraordinary haste with which Bnei Yisrael were pressured to leave Egypt, and due to all manners of wealth in their arms, they had no time to find or load wagons. Instead, the donkeys did their work. But more: the donkeys ended up carrying much larger burdens than normal, in place of the unavailable wagons. This act of chessed catapulted these otherwise stubborn, spiritually unclean beasts into objects of mitzvah. All first-born donkeys, alone among non-kosher animals, are to be redeemed... otherwise, killed. They are not private property until one has paid his due. But S'forno goes further. The last words of the parasha are meant as further explanation of this otherwise difficult mitzvah. Par'oh, as we learned in S'forno last week, could have redeemed himself and his entire nation by sending out Yisrael voluntarily, earlier on in the makkos tournament. S'forno reminds us that Mitzrayim is compared to a donkey. (see Yechezkel 23:20, אשר בשר המורים בשרם) And Yisrael is compared to a lamb (see Yirmiyah, 50:17 and Yechezkel 34:17). Now all fits into place. Par'oh (the donkey) should have been redeemed by allowing the freedom to worship Hashem to Yisrael (the sheep, lamb). Instead, when Par'oh became so stubborn that he would not fulfill his duty, Hashem then killed the sons of Mitzrayim (compared to donkeys), "cutting them off" על כן אני זוכה לה' כל פטר רחם: Therefore, if one fails to redeem a donkey with a sheep he too must kill the donkey. The Torah, says S'forno, provides its own answer and explanation to this elusive mitzvah.

A GIGANTIC LITTLE SECRET" ... By Rabbi Yosef Schwab

ברית מילה - This is well known as the first mitzvah given to Bnai Yisrael as a nation. The first mitzvah given to a Jew is ברית מילה, while the first mitzvah in the Torah altogether is פרו ורבו.

FROM THE PEN OF RAV S.R. HIRSCH... By Rabbi Naftoly Katzenstein

גם האיש משה גדול מאד בארץ מצרים - Why was Moshe's greatness recognized only here, at this point? Explains R' Hirsch, that during the חושך of the Egyptians stood helpless for 3 days as their treasures and wealth lay open in their houses. Yet, the Jews did not take advantage of the situation against either the Egyptians or their possessions. When the Egyptians recovered the use of their eyesight and found their possessions untouched, they recognized the sterling qualities and moral nobility of בני ישראל, Moshe's people. It was now that they recognized the greatness of Moshe. At this point, בני ישראל were hesitant to go ahead and request the gold and silver of the Egyptians. They did not want to lose the high ground of their moral victory by such requests. Therefore ה' told Moshe "דבר נא", a language used to imply reluctance on the part of the person being addressed. What a powerful impact we can make on the נכרים around us when our dealings with them are glatt יושר.
